Subteam
- Memorial Services and Receptions
Memorial Services & Receptions Team

The church office will inform the Team Leader of the Memorial Service & Receptions Team of the time and place of the memorial service. This Team Leader will, in turn, proceed with arrangements for the service and reception.

When a church member has died, memorial services will be conducted by the minister at no charge. For others the minister’s fee is $200.00, plus a building use fee dependent upon which parts of the church are used. The musician’s fee for playing music is $100.00, paid to him/her directly.

The Senior Minister will inquire from the family in order to make arrangements for the approximate number of guests, food, flowers, guest book, servers, ushers, and greeters. A minister plans the actual memorial service with the family.

Beverages, donated finger food, and flowers for tables in Deale Hall will be provided for a church member. Anything beyond this will be the responsibility of the family. The church food service provider is available for approximately $10.00 per hour plus food expenses.

The family is informed that flowers provided by the family for the sanctuary are placed on a shelf in the front of the church and should be “one-sided.” If the family also wants to provide flowers for the food table they may do so; at times the flowers from the sanctuary have been brought in for the reception. Family members should place their own order with the florist of their choice, and arrange for delivery. Often the family flowers are used in the sanctuary on the following Sunday as a memorial “provided in memory of …” should the family so desire. The exception is on occasions when someone has already ordered flowers for that particular Sunday.

A guest book should be furnished by the family. It is often available from the funeral home. The church does have a guest book with removable pages in the Alliance cupboard should one not be available at the time of the memorial service.

If the family would like to name greeters, guestbook person, ushers, servers, and people who would pour the punch and/or coffee, they may do so by informing the Team Leader of these details. Otherwise the Team Leader will recruit people to do this if the family indicates that it has no preference and/or does not want to assume this responsibility.
